Prefatory.

We take pleasure in presenting our second City Directory of El Paso.

Wondrous changes have taken place since our first work. On every side we found evidences of thrift and substantial improvement. Beautiful new residences, handsome business blocks and improved conditions met our gaze on every side, and to-day we can honestly say that El Paso possesses more of the elements of progress than any other city in the State of Texas. We know whereof we speak, for we have been around during the past two years and our mingling with the people gives us opportunities in this direction that are denied others.

As is our custom in all cities where we publish Directories we have taken an accurate, painstaking census of El Paso. It is gratifying to announce that her population to-day is 18,627, against 15,468 in 1896—a clear gain of 3,159. No other city in Texas can show such a record, in proportion to its population.

Far removed from the cotton belt, El Paso has not felt and will not feel the depression that exists in that region, and this of itself should be a source of congratulation. On the other hand the mineral country tributary to El Paso is only being opened up, and from our point of view the advantage to El Paso from this source alone is beyond computation. With the railroads now under construction as feeders, we would not be surprised on our coming, two years hence, to be able to announce a population of twenty-five thousand people.

We would emphasize to-day the statement we made two years ago that what St. Paul and Minneapolis are to the Northwest and Denver to the West, El Paso is destined to be to the Southwest. Its matchless location at the Great Pass of the North, through which commerce has passed for centuries, will ever give her supremacy. She is the natural and logical center through which the vast trade between Old Mexico, and the vast North and Middle West must pass. She will always be the great railway center, with no rival in sight. With no competing city nearer than Dallas, more than 600 miles away—Denver or Pueblo 700 miles—Los Angeles 800 miles distant—what must her future be?

Irrigation will make the Valley of the Rio Grande blossom as the rose. This is not only feasible, but the day is not far distant when that important element—agriculture—will be added to the many blessings which this city now enjoys.

Speaking about blessings—we wonder if you people really do appreciate your unsurpassed climate? When we returned home after the holidays, having finished our work in your city, we saw the effects of the terrible blizzard that Eastern Texas experienced during that time, and heard the stories of ice three inches thick in Dallas, and all that. When we stated that El Paso saw none of it—that you know nothing of such things only by reading about them, that you are three thousand miles from Klondike and Klondike weather, everybody who knew us and believed us wanted to move your way.

One of the green spots in our memory is the royal treatment accorded us by the business people of El Paso in our Directory work. Every courtesy was shown us, and we received substantial encouragement, as a glance at our list of patrons, book and advertising, will attest.

We trust this work will merit the warm approval given our former effort.

Respectfully,

POSTOFFICES IN TEXAS.

(From the United States Postal Guide, compiled and published by Metropolitan Job Print, New York, N. Y.)

The postoffices of Texas are divided into four classes, the first three being called presidential postoffices, for the reason that when the salary of a postmaster reaches the sum of one thousand dollars, the appointment by law vests in the president. In the fourth-class are found nearly all the offices; the salary being less than one thousand dollars, the postmaster is appointed by the postmaster-general. The first-class contains all offices where the salary is at least three thousand dollars; the second-class runs from two thousand to three thousand dollars, and the third class from one thousand to two thousand dollars. Total population of the United states, as per U. S. census of 1890, was 62,903,318; of Texas, 2,235,523,

POPULATION OF EL PASO.

1896 15,468 1898 18,627

Increase in two years, 3,159.

NOTE.—The above increase in population does not include 212 non-commissioned officers and enlisted men located at Fort Bliss.

The figures given above represent bona fide residents of El Paso.

Our canvass was painstaking and accurate, and made with a view of showing the exact census of this city.

She entered the store in a dignified way,
 Quite full of importance and pride;
 She looked quite impressive, as if to convey
 The thought of an influence wide.
 The clerks made a rush to attend to her wants;
 Handed chairs for her comfort and ease,
 But she cut their hopes short when she said in advance,
 "May I see the Directory, please?"
