R. L. ANDERSON MACH. CO.

PREFACE.

A prominent railroad man attended the Cattlemen's Convention recently held at El Paso. On his return home he said: "El Paso has a great future before it. It will soon be as big as Denver. El Paso itself is growing at an amazing rate. The last two years have seen a wonderful change. The street car service is superb and everything is city-like. Hills are being cut down and fine costly residences are going up. All of this was a revelation to the people from the North and East, who expected to find an old-time frontier town."

The population of El Paso in 1880 was less than 800, in 1890 it had reached 10,000. What of today? This volume contains 11,056 names. Applying the multiple of three, which is generally believed to represent the names of the women and children who are not included in a directory canvass, the present population of El Paso is 33,168.

John F. Worley & Co's. estimate of population has proven so reliable and accurate in the past, and this fact is so generally known and appreciated throughout the state, that it is unnecessary to comment on it further. The following is the number of individual names by actual count, appearing under the different letters of the alphabet for the year 1903.

The first railroad reached El Paso in May, 1881. Within two years thereafter five great trunk lines centered in this city. They are the Texas & Pacific, running eastward to Fort Worth, Dallas, St. Louis and New Orleans; the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio, eastward to San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans; the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, northward to Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago; the Southern Pacific, westward to Los Angeles and San Francisco; and the Mexican Central, southward along the high plateau to the City of Mexico.

Two lines of railroad have been built out from El Paso, the El Paso & Northeastern, or "White Oaks," to the mineral, timber, grazing and agricultural country 100 to 200 miles northeast of El Paso; and the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre & Pacific, or the "Sierra Madre Line," running southwest from El Paso 150 miles into a rich mineral, timber, grazing and agricultural district, in the States of Chihuahua and Sonora, Mexico.

The Rock Island Railway Company has extended its line from Kansas southwest across New Mexico to connect with the El Paso & Northeastern 160 miles northeast of El Paso, thus giving El Paso the sixth great trunk line of railway, and a shorter route to the east by about 300 miles. Phelps, Dodge & Co., are building a line from El Paso southwest to Bisbee, opening up an exceedingly rich and prosperous mineral district, heretofore practically closed to El Paso markets. A line projected from San Diego, Cal., by way of Yuma, Phoenix, Benson and Bisbee to El Paso, will give El Paso a much shorter, easier and quicker route to the Pacific seaboard. Other railways are contemplated and their building is merely a question of time.

The railroads have agreed to build in El Paso a magnificent union depot.

In 1890 there were enrolled in the public schools 859 pupils. The scholastic census for 1902-3 showed 3105 pupils.

It is not our province, nor have we the space, to give an extended history of this remarkable city. The examples we cite run through the whole fabric, and the efficient Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce will gladly supply any needed information about El Paso's resources and possibilities.

There is no surer index of a city's standing than its Business Directory. We invite an inspection of the work which we here present. It is constructed on metropolitan lines.

We wish especially to call attention to a new feature which we present in this book, viz: A Street Directory, which will be found in the front of the book, printed on colored paper. It contains a description of each street, together with the numbers on each street numerically arranged with the occupant's name opposite the number, and also shows all street intersections. It is a most valuable feature, and we ask our patrons to acquaint themselves with it.

This work contains four separate directories--A Miscellaneous Directory, pages 19 to 66; a Street Directory, pages 67 to 113; an Alphabetical Directory, pages 115 to 372; and a Classified Business Directory, pages 373 to 406. Every feature in the several departments can be readily found by referring to the index.

In substantial progress El Paso easily outstrips every other Texas city, and with astounding rapidity she is fulfilling her destiny. With unlimited possibilities surrounding her and with her development as yet scarcely begun, we expect the next decade to place to her credit 100,000 population.

We thank all those who have contributed to the success of this publication, whether by their patronage or otherwise.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. WORLEY & CO.,

Postoffices in Texas

From U. S. Official Postal Guide.

The postoffices in Texas are divided into four classes, the first three being called presidential postoffices for the reason that when the salary of a postmaster reaches the sum of one thousand dollars, the appointment by law vests in the president. In the fourth class is found nearly all the offices; the salary being less than one thousand dollars, the postmaster is appointed by the postmaster-general. The first class contains all offices where the salary is at least three thousand dollars; the second class runs from two thousand to three thousand dollars, and the third class from one thousand to two thousand dollars. The population of the United States as per census of 1900, was 76,295,220; of Texas, 3,048,710 (males,

1,578,900; females, 1,469,810. Total number of foreign-born, 179,357; total number of whites, 2,426,669.) an increase in Texas of $12,187, or 36.4 per cent since 1890.

The total number of postoffices in Texas Jan. 1, 1902, was 3,198, of which 7 are first class; 29 second class; 145 third class; 3,017 fourth class; 181 presidential offices. The total number of money order offices was 1,223 and 12 money order stations. There are 23 cities in the state which have free delivery services—Austin, Cleburne, Corsicana, Dallas, Denison, El Paso, Fort Worth, Gainesville, Galveston, Greenville, Houston, Hillsboro, Laredo, Marshall, Palestine, Paris, San Antonio, Sherman, Temple, Texarkana, Tyler, Waco and Weatherford.
