SUBJECT Mr. and Mrs. Weichselbaum

In your last year's report you wrote about the Weichselbaums who were waiting at the border for their preference visas. Have they secured their visas, and are they now in the United States?

Dear Miss Razovsky:-

Re- Weichselbaum - Waserzuk
Max Phillipowsky-Pola Gershbein
Borenstein - Families

The Weichselbaum family is still in Juarez awaiting first priority on an agricultural number. Our Consul has again asked for the numbers for this family, as well as for the Waserzuk family.

A first preference quota has been assured to one, Max Phillipowsky, whose American wife lives in Omaha, Nebraska. This number is issued for November, so I have very little hope for the Weichselbaum family getting in prior to that time. These are all Polish quotas.

We are expecting the return papers on the Pola Gershbein Borenstein case, who will be admitted as a non-quota, due to her husband being an American citizen. These papers are now before the Commissioner General in Washington for his approval.

Yours very truly,

Chairman,, Service for Foreign Born.

number to these deserving people but it is necessary for the number to come from the American Consul in Warsaw. It is he who is holding up the numbers. Warsaw We wanted to know if you could not write to the Consul in Juarez and bring some influence to bear in convincing him in issuing numbers for these people.

Yours very truly and thanking you for past favors,

Re; Simon Weichselbaum & Wife

Dear Mr. Hershfield;

In reply to yours of recent date wish to say that in my letter of January 7th. I evidently did not make myself clear. What I wanted to convey was that the American Consul in Juarez is ready and anxious to issue a number to these deserving people but it is necessary for the number to come from the American Consul in Warsaw. It is he who is holding up the numbers. Warsaw We wanted to know if you could not write to the Consul in Juarez and bring some influence to bear in convincing him in issuing numbers for these people.

Yours very truly and thanking you for past favors,

Mrs. Frank Zlabovsky
