The University of Texas
At El Paso

The Campus

U.T. El Paso (above) is situated at the foot of the Franklin Mountains, in the river valley carved out by the Rio Grande and named by the early Spanish explorers El Paso del Norte—"The Pass of the North." Its nearness to Mexico has had a lasting effect on the school, from campus interest in bilingual education to the tacos and enchiladas served in the Commons.

Perhaps the first thing a newcomer to campus notices is the unique architecture, designed after the national style of Bhutan. The Education Building (right) is an example of "Americanized Bhutanese," with its flat roof and banded walls. It rises nine stories, the tallest building on campus.

A Quiet Campus

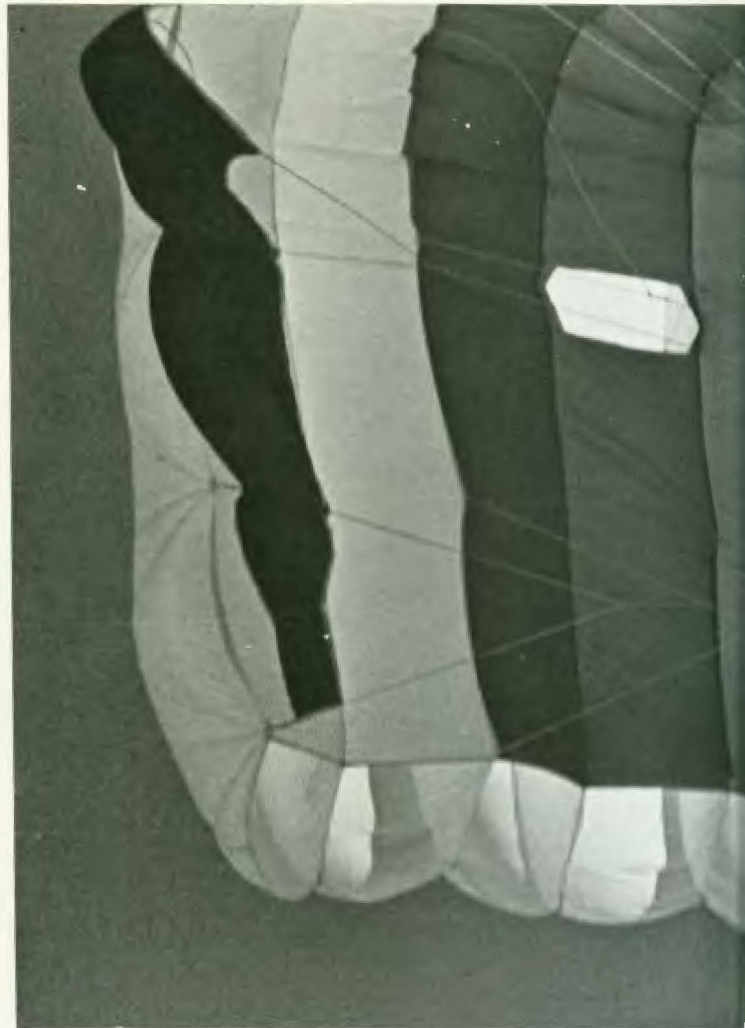

U.T. El Paso has an approximate enrollment of 15,000 students, but many of them are commuters. In the afternoons, the campus seems quiet, compared to the busy crowded mornings. Students can find relative privacy in Leach Grove (right) during the later part of the day.

A recent addition to the campus is the Engineering-Science Complex (below), which opened in fall of 1976. The old engineering and biology buildings have been renovated for the mass communications and psychology departments.

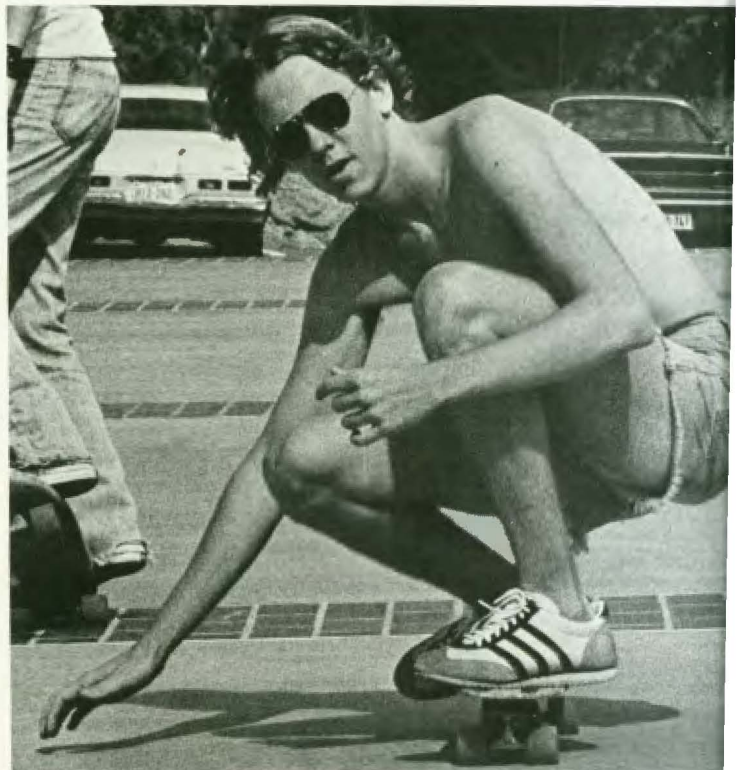

What Can You Do on Campus?

Many students have been heard to wonder exactly where campus life is. For one thing, some are able to make their own fun (right). However, even a small effort will reveal many activities which are available to any interested student.

A wide variety of organizations—social, service, special interest, and honorary—exist, and are active on campus. The Society of Physics Students (above left) sometimes sets up a telescope for students interested in space observation. And a member of the campus Sport Parachuting Club (above right) demonstrates "how to do it."

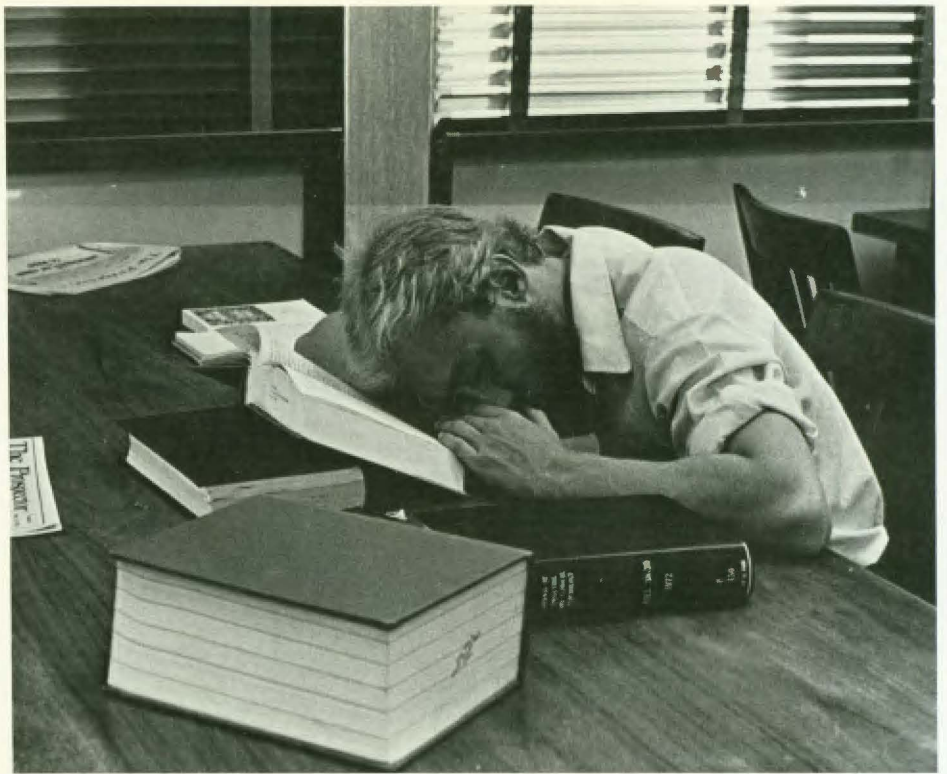

There are many free things to do on campus. A Student Activities Card (far right), issued to all full-time students, allows entrance to films, dramas, sporting events, and other worthwhile activities.

Time to Study

And when there is absolutely nothing else to do, students usually break down and start studying. Studying can occur almost anywhere (clockwise from right): a dorm room, a lounge in the Student Union Building, or the Faculty Cafeteria. It is even possible to stay up all night to get an assignment done. But some students find the library a better place for a nap than for research.

Dorm students in Kelly and in Barry Halls have the advantage of living near their friends, but even commuter students can meet on campus and develop meaningful relationships, either of love or friendship. On campus, even mushrooms can develop meaningful relationships!

Togetherhness

The Arts

are alive and well at U.T. El Paso. Graphic art is by no means the only cultural activity on campus. Poetry readings by Galway Kinnell and William Stafford, lectures by Tom Wolfe and Judith Crist, appearances by the National Shakespeare Company and the Harlem Opera Society—these are just some of the cultural goings-on on campus this past year.

The World

Events that will stay in the minds of all U.T. El Paso students for a long time to come include a visit to El Paso by Jimmy Carter while he was campaigning last fall for the presidency. The tragic deaths of two Kenyan campus athletes in a car accident last October precipitated a march of mourning (above). And last November, the Iranian Student Association showed its strength in a public protest of recent harassment of Iranians in France and the United States (top).

Homecoming 1976

Homecoming last fall took place on October 15-16. Activities included several contests such as the sardine-eating contest (below), rallies, and parades. Vicky Ferrell (right) was elected Homecoming Queen. The theme of Homecoming this year was "Anything Goes"—and a frog-jumping contest and an "Ugly Man on Campus" competition hopefully put everyone in that spirit.

Yearbook

Staff

The staff wishes to thank all the people who helped in making this yearbook a reality: Russell Banks, Kathy Bartel, Pat Carpio, Jerry Holland, Yolanda Naudin, Judy Solis, Julian Villanueva, and the Prospector staff photographers.

"The Miner" is the first yearbook on campus in several years. By 1972, campus disinterest in the annual yearbook prevented it from being published any longer. But Mortar Board decided that the spirit on campus had changed, and sponsored a senior yearbook as a service project this year. First, it was necessary to contact all seniors by mail and by posters around campus. Next, a photographer took pictures of seniors during a week in February. The staff completed work on it in early March.

1976 TRACK & CROSS COUNTRY

Even though young, high jumper Greg Joy won the Silver Medal at the Montreal Olympic games for his native Canada in the summer of 1976.

James Munyala, a mainstay in all three phases of the UTEP track program, is a member of the Miner cross country team that is two-time national champ.

Wilson Waigwa is probably the greatest distance runner to ever wear the orange and white. Along with numerous prestigious wins in the mile, he has been named All-America every year he's been at UTEP.

The year 1976 was a productive one for the University of Texas at El Paso track team, even though it saw Coach Ted Banks' string of four NCAA titles broken at the Outdoor Championships in Philadelphia in June.

The Miners started the calendar year 1976 by winning the NCAA indoor title after winning the Western Athletic Conference indoor crown for the third straight year. It was also the third straight crown at the nationals for Banks.

The string was broken when UTEP managed a second place finish at the outdoor meet behind a strong and deep Southern California team.

But the Miners returned to championship ways again in the fall when the cross country team won its second straight national title, not to mention the Western Athletic Conference crown.

In all, when the year 1976 was over, Banks had accumulated 16 conference and national championships (10 WAC and 6 NCAA).

WOMEN'S

This year was UTEP's second year of competition in the Intermountain Conference of AIAW (Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women). The AIAW is the governing body of women's sports for colleges and universities around the U.S. As a member of the Intermountain Conference, UTEP competes against thirteen other schools: University of Arizona, Arizona State University, Northern Arizona University, Utah State University, Weber State University, Brigham Young University, University of Utah, University of Wyoming, University of Northern Colorado, Colorado State University, University of Colorado, University of New Mexico, and New Mexico State University.

There are four varsity sports for women: VOLLEYBALL, BASKETBALL, GYMNASTICS, and TRACK and FIELD.

The increase of complexities in our society in the areas of structural design, environmental refinement, waste and water treatment and energy development enhances the importance of the role of today's Civil Engineer.

Mortar Board

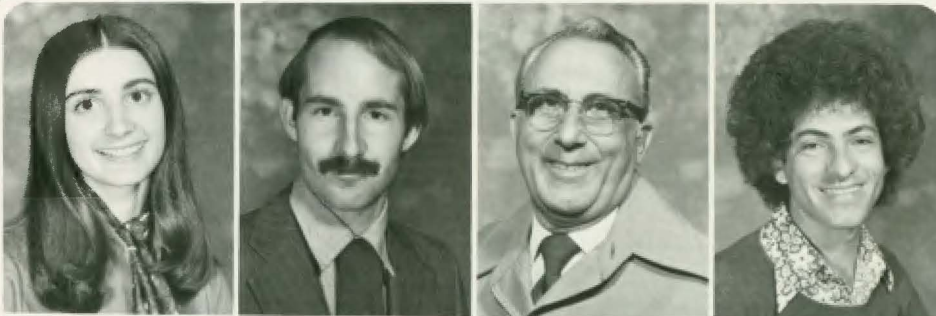

Mortar Board, a senior honorary organization, was busy this past year with several projects which supported the organization's ideals of scholarship, leadership, and service to the university. One project was the initiation of an Achievement Award given periodically to a distinguished person on campus who deserved recognition. Another project was sponsoring a campus Talent Show. Mortar Board was the primary promoter of "The Miner," the senior yearbook. Finally, it sponsored an Organization Honors Night, when all campus groups had the chance to exchange information about their activities with each other. As the year progressed, the biweekly meetings, presided over by Alicia Arce, president (right), became gatherings of friends as well as of fellow members.
