Biographical Sketch

Born in El Paso, Dr. Bernardo Villegas (1898 – 1993) was a graduate of the Texas State School of Mines and Metallurgy, a mining engineer, and an optometrist. Villegas attended Aoy School and then Alamo School and San Jacinto School. After graduating from El Paso High School, he enrolled at the Texas State School of Mines and Metallurgy in 1918. While at the School of Mines, Villegas joined the Student Army Training Corps (SATC) and majored in mining (the only major offered at the time). He paid his tuition by working part-time at the local Post Office. Upon his graduation in 1922, he took a job with the United Verde Copper Company in Arizona, moved to Detroit for a position at a gas company, and then worked as a mining engineer in El Tigre, Sonora. During the Great Depression, Dr. Villegas opened a chain of exchange houses in Ciudad Juárez. After becoming seriously ill due to a burst appendix, he decided to become an optometrist at the urging of his father-in-law (also an optometrist) and attended the Los Angeles School of Optometry and the Southern College of Optometrists in Memphis. Dr. Villegas opened his optometry practice at 120 S. Mesa Street in the late 1930s and then established the Franklin Optical Company with one of his sons in 1955. Dr. Villegas and his wife, Consuelo Olivares Villegas, had four children.
