Historical Sketch

El Paso County was first established in 1850 and the county's largest town, San Elizario, served as its first seat. Later, the county seat was moved to Ysleta and then finally to El Paso in 1883. County clerks of varying abilities and qualifications managed the county records during the nineteenth century. During the U.S. Civil War, the records were lost though the deed records were recovered. Some former county clerks during the early twentieth century include Park W. Pitman, W.D. Greet, and Eleanor Love Greet.

The records were originally stored in rented rooms and in clerks' homes and then in courthouses in Ysleta and El Paso. Some of the records stored in El Paso's courthouse may have been lost or damaged when a fire broke out in 1890. County records were also stored in people's basements and attics as well as the old jail in El Paso. The poor condition of some of the records reflects this storage history.

In 1975, the Texas State Library and Archives Commission transferred the county records to the UTEP Library as part of its newly formed Regional Historical Resources Depository program. Through the program, the Texas State Library retains ownership of the records, but allows the records to be housed and made available to researchers at the UTEP Library.
