Historical Sketch

The El Paso Post, which was founded in 1922, did not publish a separate sports section until 1926. That year, Bob Ingram joined the paper and became sports editor. Ingram came to the Post from the University of Oklahoma, where he had been sports editor of the student newspaper. In 1931 the Post and the El Paso Herald merged and became known as the El Paso Herald-Post. Ingram was sports editor of the Herald-Post until his retirement in 1981.

Ingram was the only sportswriter at the Herald-Post until Ray Sanchez began working for the newspaper in the fall of 1949. Sanchez had attended Texas Western College and covered sports for the student newspaper. Sanchez became a full-time sports writer in 1950, and he served as assistant sports editor under Ingram. Sanchez and Ingram remained the only two sports staffers at the Herald-Post until the 1960s. Upon Ingram's retirement, Sanchez assumed the role of sports editor, which he held until his retirement in 1990.

When Sanchez joined the Herald-Post, he primarily covered high school sports, while Ingram covered all other sports, including UTEP athletics and minor-league baseball. Ingram also wrote a column, titled "As I Was Saying." In later years, Sanchez covered non-high school sports such as professional football, horse racing, golf, and tennis. Derry Eads was another longtime Herald-Post sports writer. Eads extensively covered running sports, and in 1984 he uncovered a major scandal involving the UTEP track & field department. Eads wrote for the Herald-Post until the newspaper ceased operations in 1997.

For more information on the history of the El Paso Herald-Post and its forerunners, consult the historical sketch in the finding aid to the MS 348 El Paso Herald-Post Records (general news files).

Scope and Content Note

The series is organized alphabetically by subject into twelve subseries, and chronologically within each subseries. The series contains photographic prints, halftone reproductions, negatives, newspaper clippings, media guides, programs, statistics sheets, and other miscellaneous records that pertain to El Paso and surrounding areas. The vast majority of the records are sports-related, but some are not, such as those pertaining to the Sun Carnival parades and coronations. In most cases, folders are labeled exactly as the envelopes in which the records were housed. Because of the effort to maintain the original integrity of the records, some minor discrepancies exist between folder labels and folder contents. Records of the greatest historical significance are housed in polyester sleeves. Also, fragile items and records that could possibly damage other items within the same folder are separated by either polyester or pH-neutral paper. The series is composed of eighty letter-size manuscript boxes, one legal-size manuscript box that only contains photographs, and one oversize box that contains whole newspaper editions and special sections. The most recent records in the collection are stored within the oversize box, and they are included within the inclusive dates of each subseries.

The first subseries is El Paso Baseball, which contains records pertaining to the minor-league baseball teams in and around El Paso. The earliest dated records in this subseries are from 1938, and the most recent are from 1988. At various times throughout those years, the El Paso franchise was called the Texans, the Sun Kings, the Sun Dodgers and the Diablos. One item of note in this subseries is an original, typed manuscript of the history of the Arizona State and Arizona Texas League from 1939. Another unusual item is a copy of a 1948 telegram sent by El Paso Mayor Dan R. Ponder to Boston Red Sox executive Joseph E. Cronin. Photographs of note include several shots of future major-league stars such as Jose Cardenal, John Kruk, Carney Lansford, and Aurelio Rodriguez.

The second subseries is El Paso High School Sports. The records span the years 1971 to 1991. Noteworthy items include a photo of Nolan Richardson when he coached for Bowie High School in El Paso. Richardson later guided the University of Arkansas to a national basketball title. Another photo in this subseries shows longtime El Paso High School basketball coach C.D. Jarvis celebrating after his last game. Jarvis coached at El Paso High School for forty years and won a state championship in 1947.

El Paso Miscellaneous Sports is the third subseries. The earliest records are from 1974 and the latest records are from 1988. The sports include golf, horse racing, and bull riding. Some records cover the 1983 NCAA Final Four, which was held in Albuquerque. Several photographs feature future NBA stars Clyde Drexler and Hakeem Olajuwon.

The fourth subseries is NFL, which covers professional football from 1984 to 1991. The records mainly concentrate on the Dallas Cowboys. Records pertaining to three Super Bowls are also included.

NMSU Sports is the fifth subseries. The records cover New Mexico State University athletics from 1969 to 1986. Included are statistics sheets and photographs from basketball games between NMSU and Indiana State when Larry Bird played for the latter school.

The sixth subseries is Sun Bowl / Sun Carnival Basketball. The inclusive dates are 1950 to 1980. Photographs feature future NBA stars Nate Archibald and Paul Westphal, who played for the University of Texas-El Paso and the University of Southern California, respectively. The subseries also includes photographs of college coaching legends Don Haskins, Bobby Knight, and Mike Krzyzewski.

The seventh subseries is Sun Bowl Football. The oldest records in this subseries pertain to the first Sun Bowl game in 1935, and they are also the oldest records in this series. An original program from the inaugural Sun Bowl is one of many significant items in this subseries. Original, typed manuscripts of play-by-play, action photographs that date from 1938, and illustrations featuring caricatures of teams' mascots are other records of note. The most recent items in the subseries are from 1989.

The eighth subseries, titled Sun Bowl Miscellaneous / Sun Carnival / Sun Country, covers the years 1949 to 1984. Most of these records are non-sports related, although they were stored among the sports files at the Herald-Post. The records include photographs of Sun Carnival parades, Sun Carnival royalty, and featured celebrities. This subseries also contains many halftone reproductions, which were sometimes labeled as "Veloxes" on the original envelopes in which they were stored. One unusual item in this subseries is a printout of the results from the 1979 El Paso bond election on Sun Bowl expansion.

UTEP Baseball is the ninth, and smallest, subseries. Only the years 1980 and 1985 are covered. A UTEP roster that lists future major league pitcher Mike Maddux is one significant item included in this subseries.

The tenth subseries is UTEP Basketball. Newspaper clippings from 1939 are the oldest records, and the most recent records cover the 1984-1985 season. This subseries contains numerous noteworthy items. Photographs feature Charles and Cecil Brown (the first African-Americans to compete in athletics at UTEP), Nolan Richardson, Nate Archibald, Don Haskins, and members of the 1965-1966 national championship team. Although game-action photographs are abundant, it should be noted that this collection does not contain any shots of the Miners' national-championship game versus Kentucky. Several notable non-

UTEP players, such as Danny Ainge and Tony Gwynn, are pictured. Also, media guides, programs and score sheets are numerous in this subseries.

Subseries eleven is UTEP Football. The earliest dated records are newspaper clippings from 1936. UTEP stars such as Ken Heineman, Jesse Whittenton, Billy Stevens, and Seth Joyner are pictured. Individual player photographs are plentiful, particularly in the 1980s. Excellent game pictures exist for most seasons. One unusual item is a copy of Head Coach Gil Bartosh's resignation announcement following the 1976 season.

The twelfth and final subseries is UTEP Track and Field / UTEP Cross Country. This subseries contains records from 1969 through 1984. Many UTEP national champions are pictured. Individuals include Wilson Waiga, Suleman Nyambui, and James Munyala. Famed runner Marty Liquori is also featured among the photographic records. Several programs from national championship meets are other records of note.

Provenance Statement

The El Paso Herald-Post published its final issue 11 October 1997. The last editor, Georgiana Vines, contacted the University of Texas at El Paso concerning the disposition of the library and other files. On 15 December 1997, Judith G. Clabes, Editorial Director for E.W. Scripps Company in Cincinnati, Ohio, signed the deed of gift and transferred all rights to the materials to the University Library.

Literary Rights Statement

Materials used in publications need to cite the El Paso Herald-Post as source. Herald-Post photographs need to be credited as well, with the photographer named, if known.

Note to the Researcher

Newspaper clippings, particularly those that are brittle and those that are separated by pH-neutral paper (e.g. baseball box scores) should be handled with care. Some baseball box scores are inter-leafed in order to maintain chronological order.

Halftone reproductions (also called "veloxes") are labeled as "Photos" in the folder subtitles. The term "relief plate," which is used in the folder subtitles, is also sometimes called a "matte."
