Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega, Texas Western College's first fraternity, was founded in 1919. It is limited to men with engineering, geology, or physics majors and math minors. APO is not affiliated with any national organization and its members direct its policies themselves. Any man who meets the major and minor requirements notifies the fraternity that he wishes to pledge. The members then decide whether or not to pledge him.

The fraternity sponsors many traditional events on the campus. They started and are still in charge of "M" Day and Initiation and Picnic for Engineers on St. Pat's Day. They also usher at the rodeo and participate in campus activities having won the Intramural cup last year.

The new sweetheart gives a fond hello.

In the different departments of the college, we found organizations for students of different majors. These organizations are for the purpose of offering outside sidelights and help toward the subject they represent. Students can find friends who are interested in the same things they are and find added knowledge through the meetings of these organizations.
