

Fraternities & Sororities

THE conquistadores and the missionaries who accompanied them gained victory not only by the sword and cross but by language as well. On the Iberian Peninsula of Europe Castilian absorbed the Asturian-Leonese and Navarro-Aragonese languages, and gradually its authority extended beyond the geographical limits of Old and New Castile.

Today the imprint of Spanish is to be found on every side in our Southwest — in the names of places, of rivers, of people, of food, of land, formations, and of countless other things affecting everyday life. The result is a richer language than can be found in any other part of the nation.

THE PANHELLENIC COUNCIL serves as a governing body for all Greek-letter sororities at Texas Western. Membership is comprised of the president and rush chairman of each of the school's national sorority chapters. In addition to its legislative duties, the group strives to foster friendship and cooperation among the various sororities, and to promote the college and attract desirable girls. Strict adherence is demanded to the national Panhellenic code of ethics which sets forth that it is beneath the standards of fraternity women to speak disparagingly of another fraternity or college woman.

Kappa Alpha Chi, former local fraternity, was founded as Epsilon Xi chapter of Kappa Sigma in 1949. This was the first step in their long line of development.

Zeta Beta Tau County entered the official circle of national fraternities in 1950, but their activities were long remembered before its official founding. The local group, Mu Delta, was the predecessor to this national chapter of Zeta Beta Tau.

Members of this fraternity have been leaders in campus activities for many years.

The original founding of the national group dates back to 1898, when the first chapter was installed at the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York City.
